Author's Note

THE purpose of this book is to make available to people in the United Kingdom an accurate picture of the country and people of the Colony and the Protectorate of Aden, and by so doing to serve the people of those territories among whom I have spent many interesting and happy years.

I have tried to practise a moderation my friends may scarcely recognise as characteristic but will, I trust, applaud, while at the same time producing a clear and definitive sketch.

My thanks are due to the Colonial Office for kindly allowing me access to my own despatches, and to Mr. N. J. V. Watt, the Public Relations Officer in Aden, who provided me with material without which I should have been much handicapped.
